Don't miss this upcoming teen workshop opportunity

The Jan. 29 registration deadline for Teen Summer Reading (TSR) Program workshops is less than two weeks away. These free workshops, to be held the fourth week of Feb., are open to Missouri public and school library personnel who serve young adults. Please note only one person per public or school library building will be permitted to register due to space limitations. Reserve your place at one of the remaining open sites by registering at <http://www.sos.mo.gov/library/development/workshop/teensummerreading/>.

MORE_Show-Me The World & OCLC trainings available

If you have not had an opportunity in the past week to check out the trainings included on WebJunction Missouri Continuing Education Calendar, note these upcoming Missouri Library Network Corporation (MLNC) workshops created with funding from the State Library. The workshops are free and are designed to help public library staff get up-to-date on OCLC software, assess current usage and plan for improved use of Show-Me The World's various services. Course offerings are scheduled from late January through mid-May and include multiple sessions of:

- OCLC Update Online via Centra
- Show-Me The World Project Overview In-Person
- Patron ILL: Make "Em Work for It! Online via Centra

In addition to the WebJunction Missouri CE calendar postings, program information and registration links for these sessions are also available through the MLNC Web site. Contact Carl Wingo, State Library Technology & Digitization Services Consultant, at 800-325-0131, ext 9 or carl.wingo@sos.mo.gov, if you have any questions about Show-Me The World services or the WebJunction Missouri pages.
